Has potential after problems are fixed, Apr 21st, 2005

This is exactly what I'm looking for, but unfortunately I can't use it. I had several problems which appeared pretty quickly. 1) I got several "division by zero" errors. 2) When adding an event, if you skip a field, you get an error page and ALL your previous input is lost. 3) Minor annoyance... when clicking on an event for more detail, scrollbox starts at Midnight. Since most events will probably be in the daytime, when you click on an event it's not there.... unless you scroll down to daylight hours.

Fix these problems and this thing is a winner!

This calendar was easily installed, easily modified, easy to administrate and seems to work well.
