Description: Are your visitors fed up of having to use that mailto: link which was so yesterday? Well this program could solve your problems. The visitors can click on the link to contact you and the program which will present them with a form which they just fill in and send. Easy as that.

But for your benefit, if they haven't filled in a bit of the form or they haven't entered a valid address, the program will return the form to the user and ask them to correct their mistake.

The latest version also comes with an optional auto responder.
