Sounded great. Ran installer, and when trying to launch IB server got this: COMCTL32.OCX or one of its dependencies not correctly registered: a file is missing or invalid. So I'm moving on....

Great script.

Since iBserver allows the starting and stopping of Apache and MySQL, I can run either IIS 5.1 or Apache in XP Pro alternatively. Very nice.

Ridiculously easy to install and it comes with very useful control panel to start and stop apache, mysql etc with the click of a button.

After installing IBserver, MySQL fails to launch on my Win XP Pro machine. No explanation. No error logs that point me to anything I can change.

Control panel, etc., look like they would be useful if it worked out of the box as advertised.
