Description: PHPObject is an open source alternative to Flash Remoting for PHP developers. With PHPObject, users can call a method of a PHP class/library on a Web server as if the class/library was defined in Flash itself. It takes care of client-server connections and makes passing of variables (properties) between Flash MX and PHP easy, and thereby providing a convenient way to connect rich media clients with data and business logic residing on a server. The library, together with a WebServicesConnectivityAddOn, also allows developers to easily consume Web services from within Flash MX.
