Tech Helper's Help

Hits: 1,328

Description: This program allows you to copy the whole content of a text file to the Windows clipboard. It's a great help if you work a lot with texts stored in files. The original idea came from a friend, who works as tech. helper, and he has to send e-mails all day to clients. He has some template answers, but until now he had to open these files, select the whole text, and copy their content to the clipboard. With this prg. it can be much more simple: just associate a file extension (for instance .ccc) with this program, and then double-click on a text file (which has this extension). Its content will be copied automatically to the clipboard.
