Site Rating System

Hits: 2,644

Description: This is a simple application to give users the opportunity to rate your site and displays results in the form of bar charts (no graphics included). The source code contains a flexible configurable database.

The application's database is made up of four tables:

Category: The table that contains the website rating categories such as Content, Authority...etc

Grade: The grades or values that can be given to each category e.g. A, B, or C

CategoryGradeDesc: This table holds the description for each category's grade value and a default grade value for the category.

Rating: This is the table that users will update by rating your site.
