ReportList Class

Hits: 1,671

Description: Designed to output lists or reports of data, typically directly from database query results, but also quite useful for quickly formatting generic array results for display. Features include record linking (i.e. the link for each row in the resulting list depends on the values of data within that row – useful in drill-down style reporting systems), record pagination, column sorting, customizable list colors and styles, row highlighting, and downloading to delimited text files and XML.
