I can't recommend this product, Dec 21st, 2004

We purchased the Pro version of this script to implement a link directory on our site. We installed and tested it within a couple days of purchase, found numerous bugs and typos, and decided it was not a good solution for us.

Less than a week after our purchase, we asked for a refund under the then advertised 30-day money back guarantee. Repeated requests for a refund went ignored.

I cannot recommend this product. It has potential, but bugs, and the refusal of the author to honor his money-back guarantee, ruined the experience for us.

I hope we can save others from having a similarly bad experience.

I don't care what this guy is saying. The script is by far the best script on the market. It's help improve my site's link popularity dramtically and I've never had problems with it whatsoever.

Excellent! I could not ask for a better software., May 25th, 2005

I just wanted to say thank you for the best link manager anywhere. I have downloaded the free version and it is unreal how well it's worked out for us.

We are definitely upgrading to the full version :)

Keep up the good work!

Great Reciprocal Management Script, May 27th, 2005

I've had nothing but good experiences with this software. I've used it for months now, and used both version 1.3 and 2.0. I've never had a problem with it on my server. Support for the product is amazing as well, with a toll free number and very helpful people, they even helped me install it!

I've used infowizards for awhile now and have to say their script is not worth the headaches. They use SourceGaurdian and if your webhost updates their php, your link directory or site will go down with a SourceGaurdian Error stating that you need to download a specific file to make it work again...twice I was not able to locate this file at the SourceGaurdian site or infowizards site. This will happen eventually with everyone who uses infowizards script.

I am not a fan of their templates either, they are very difficult to use and manipulate and ran into so many problems and time delays. As for support? Well that is something to be desired...some people never get questions answered, and many end up waiting a very long time. They try using a forum method, but this is the same...they now launched a new forum, but I doubt this will help. Just too many bugs and issues. Their recip checker is buggy and updates for this never work. I also downloaded the complete script again and noticed that the set of files in it are different and don't match what I originally got. example: the admin folder in the recent download has half the files, but the version seems to be 2.5 but there is no version 2.5 as of this review post...it's still 2.0.

I really don't recommend it....if you are serious and want a long-term solution, try another script.

Since they have done away with that Source Guardian, I must say it's the best script out on the internet now. I would highly recommend this to anyone.

Ever since they got rid of that Source Guarden my account with them have never been better. I am making more contacts and putting up more and more links to my website. Thanks for all the hard work and keep it up you guys are great.

Nice Design and Interface, poor support and operation., Jun 3rd, 2006

Reviewed By: fbarcnas

The interface is nice, and installation is simple enough, cool alexa rating and thumbnails on each listing.

Poor support: I still can't get my cron job to run and emails to support go unanswered. I have to uninstall it and switch to PHP Directory.

I bought the populated package. It came with 2500 links already in the directory, with was cool, it's better than starting out bare bones.

So unless you can support yourself, it's really not worth the investment. Money down the tubes, It sux.
