Description: A message board that is ideal for webmasters who don't need or want big forums on their sites. It doesn't require any SQL databases. It stores all posts as HTML pages (to minimize the load on your server) and features smileys, instant new post notification, easy deletion of inappropriate posts, style customization and more. It even comes with e-mail protection against SPAM harvesters and a bad words filter which will replace all bad words with ****. I really enjoyed using this PHP script. It was very easy to understand and setup and even customizable without too much effort.

Mboard is a pretty cool script. Well thought out and compact. The only problem seems to come when you add entries then use the back button. Going back or forwards can add copies of the message you just wrote or try to delete a message you just deleted. This problem doesn't seem to happen in its original state - just when you try to customise it. All but the slightest changes seem to result in this error.

I must say that I just LOVED this script. It was easy to set up and the support forum helped me to customize it as well. I just wish that all free scripts were this easy to use. I am most pleased that it does not use a real bloated data file. Kudos to the author!

I used this script for my Class Reunion web page, it has been a lot of fun and very easy to use. I have a little php and html experience, and it was still simple to install and run. Two thumbs up.
