I used this script for a client and we were able to fully customize the design, and include all the features we needed.

We also received great support from the author to help integrate the script.
Overall 5 star.

It's well worth the investment for this script. It made life so much easier than starting from scratch.

Excellent Job Board! Mat at Broadshout did a great with the first project (the addition of the recruitment job board to my Flash site). It went so well that I had him totally redo the site and now, with the updated script for the recruiting job board, it has a much more attractive and professional look. The product is customizable and it works like a charm. I highly suggest this product and service if you are a small recruitment firm looking to expose your open requisitions.

This code will not work as downloaded. You'll need to change the install.php to include "sql.inc" not "sql.sql" as the code originally delivers.

After you get past that, you get to battle with a generic install screen with no graphics and a text box. Then, the script, when setup, still doesn't work and throws an error.

Also, this script uses file_get_contents which is disabled on many webhosting providers. Move on to the next script. I am.

don't bother..., Feb 9th, 2008

There are no instructions... in the zip it refers you back to the website for installation instructions. there are none... Too bad, it looked like it might have been a nice script.
