Free Ipods Clone

Hits: 2,335

Description: Did you hear about a very successful free ipods marketing campaign? Featured in such major on-line news resources as Wired and EndGadget, it spread a wave of interest across the country, giving away thousands of items. It's is quite probable that you were one of those lucky people!

But you can be sure that the company behind this program was not dispatching the gadgets out of some altruistic reasons or in order to promote them, they have a lot of promotion anyway. To get the prize members of the program had to sign up for a certain on-line promotion (like AOL, or Ancestry.com trials) and get five other people to follow suit. But on average only 10-15% of all participants manage to persuade five their friends to sign up. And for every new members, supplied to their sponsors, organizers obtain up to 90 dollars. Simple arithmetics shows that with item price around 250$ this campaign works out really well for its organizers. It's a completely new, legitimate and effective

Just giving everyone fair warning.

The install instructions were poor. This script is not turnkey so prepare to do some coding. Also prepare to fix errors in the code. The creator is not of much assistance.

This script didn't work, and is not a "clone" of freeipods. It lacks important features that are necessary. No support at all, and when I asked for a refund one day after purchase the author refunded only 50%.
