Free Graphical Poll Creation Software For Your Web Site. FunGL

Hits: 9,079

Description: FunGL is a full featured free poll creation web based application. This application will allow you to create polls (including graphical output such as pie chart or bar chart), to be placed on any web site to survey end users opinions on any topic. The software supports two user types, administrators who manage the poll software and can also create multiple polls for web sites. The second type is the end users, who can create one project with polls for their own web site. The poll software generates html code that can be placed in any web page's html to display the poll. Once the code is placed on a web page, an administrator or end user than can then alter the poll from the FunGL interface without altering the code on their web page.
