Nice script, Aug 4th, 2005

I've been in the web design business for many years and have always hated making basic feedback forms! It's such a waste of time having to design the form, write hairy code to do something so simple. Nobody should have to write code. It should just "work" automatically. Well... with this script the process IS automatic. I can think of several other optional features to add to the script, but for just a basic feedback form on a server that supports PHP, this is all you need. It could save me a lot of time on future feedback forms. I don't like the idea of putting someone else's link on any of my client's sites, though. I would rather pay on a $5.00 per form basis & have the credits removed.
