After spending $99 in a poorly designed store, I received the license key and script. After spending 4 hours trying to install it, I then received an encrypted key code. With all the components in place, the script still has not functioned. The developer who appears to be sincere has made several script revisions on the fly in an effort to make this work. To date the script has not functioned and I have moved learning an expensive lesson.

I looked at all the coupon creation scripts on hotscripts and this one has it all! I needed to have the ability to approve coupons prior to them being published and the author added it to the script for me! My users love it, they think the automatic barcode appearing on the coupons is magic!

Thanks for a great script and the terrific support!

I give this one 2 thumbs up!
