Thyme Calendar - time-tested and top notch, May 22nd, 2006

Our city government has been using the Thyme Calendar system, written in PHP, for over a year. Our entire staff loves it's ease of use, and full-featured options. What is really a pleasure in this day and age is the finest technical support system that I have experienced. Extrosoft (www.extrosoft.com) has a great forum, and the owner/programmer is on it every day, responding immediately to any setup assistance, or requests for special features.

Try this program and see how well it performs.

This is by far the most complete calendar script i have ever used, and its possibilities are endless, thanks to a superb object oriented approach. You can customize it to the infinitum with the constant help of the Lead developer of Thyme. Extremely good customer support too.

My client wanted a calendar he could access from anywhere via his website but only wanted registered users to view it. The modification capabilities of Thyme allowed me to give my client the simplicity and features he wanted, including user log-ins, multiple private calendars, and easy event manager - without my having to do any PHP programming! I look like a genius! It's been live for a month and he loves it. The tech support I received from Ian was immediate and helpful, even on a holiday!
