Description: Hivemaker is a website creation system written in PHP. Users can create websites without knowing any HTML in a fashion similar to GeoCities. Users can select modules and VERY easily create contact forms, web counters and a variety of other content! Included is a website directory that allows all your users websites to be viewable to the general public.

For administrators Hivemaker is easily upgradeable. Modules and templates can be installed as simply as uploading the new template. The content is then immediately ready to be used by your users. Full user administration functions are available as well as the ability to add banners to every user's website.
