PHP Form Wizard is Very Nice, Jul 12th, 2006

I like this product! I tried the trail version for approx. one year and found it to fit all my needs. This prgram is excellent for the novice programmer; however. I found that the help files could use detailed explanations and small text corrections. Since using this product, I have not received spam or injections. This product really does prevent spamming!!!

I think this product is great. It performed the functions I needed very elegantly. (Posting data to database, and e-mail responders), I love this software, best $28 bucks I could ever spend

PHP Form Wizard has 2 MAJOR BUGS, Jan 13th, 2008

PHP Form Wizard has 2 bugs that alter how the form behaves IF YOU EDIT OR CHANGE THE ORIGINAL FORM!

The .pfw file is supposed to let you make changes to the original project, then republish the PHP file again.

If you run a .pfw file and look at the code of the new php file you will discover:

- 1-The ORIGINAL FONT, SIZE, AND COLOR of ALL messages is forgotten
- 2-It does not include the 'Error Alert' message part of the code for MOST of the originally 'required' fields.

You must manually fix

Quite good but has unexplained limitations - not enough room here to fu

I had a look around at what was available in form processing scripts and couldn't find one that was free that did what I wanted. PHP form wizard seemed to do all that I wanted and was fairly cheap so I decided to go for it. It has a nice interface and with a bit of perseverance I was able to get it working and I was quite please with it but I then I found that the result fields were in the wrong order and that there is no way to have linked forms. I hope these are sorted, and I'll change this
