I've referred this script to a lot of people wanting to understand the PHP language and they have all told me how much they like it. I'm a big fan of this script and all of the other scripts made by phpLinkDirectory

Great for Search Engine Keyword Optimization, Oct 23rd, 2005

I have just added this script to my website using it as a glossary of technical terms and phrases relevant to the niche topic I cover.

It generates search engine friendly pages using mod rewrite for each detailed page (with the full definition of the terminology) and for the A-Z letter pages.

It also includes an internal search facility based on word and definition (title and description).

It is template based so it can be easily styled to match the "look and feel" of existing websites.

I was very pleased with the last script I purchased from netcreated, and I decided to try this free one. While it is a pretty simple script, it was easy to setup, and I'm planning to use it to make a nice glossary of terms for a customer of mine.
