Auto-centering Popup Window

Hits: 9,582

Description: Use this practical DHTML script to not only open up links in a secondary popup window, but one that's centered in the middle of the user's screen. Browsers other than NS 4+ or IE 4+ will still open the window, only that it won't be centered.

The deal with this script is that while it is full featured, if the spawned window is already open and another window is spawned from the original onclick event, a run time error occurs and the script stops functioning, It brings up the link within the current frame without any of the onclick paramters.

May work well in a strict environment, however not for general use.
