2 months ago I purchased a 1 year subscription on their website, to all their then current and all the future products and updates for 1 year. After 2 months of them ignoring my repeated emailed requests for 1 remaining application and for the promised (in an email) login information so I can have access to all of their applications, they informed me they no longer support the subscription I purchased, and that I am free to buy a new subscription.

I purchased ALLApp Reseller License for $299. It contains about 20 scripts. I have tried using 7 of the main scripts and they all had problems. I had another db person look at them and was told they were all worthless. I was also told that this company would install the script, however they did not and see why, since the script did not work. They had good customer service until I purchased. Then I didn't hear back from them.
