dating.NET

Hits: 5,817

Description: This is a simple dating web application written in ASP.NET using VB.NET with a MySQL backend, which is usually a cheaper option than Microsoft SQL Server. It has all the typical features of a dating website including multiple-photo profiles, messaging, and favorites. Other user features including message blocking and searching.

This is meant for developers since it does not include a setup wizard. Basic MySQL and VB.NET skills are required to run the database creation script and change some database-specific constants stored in web.config and a shared VB file.

Send comments to anhtuan@sfsu.edu, but please don't ask for new features as I now only code in PHP, and stopped developing this application in 2005. Thanks for checkin it out!
