Expose template engine

Hits: 2,685

Description: Expose is a PHP template engine. It supports server and client-sided caching, a plugin system (to simplify common tasks like inserting a date picker) and localization (to write templates in multiple languages using external translation files). Unlike most template engines, Expose's template script language is based on PHP itself, which means you don't have to learn a new syntax. You can use most of the PHP language elements and functions the way you're familiar with.
