I can't believe I found exactly what I needed. I looked everywhere for community portal systems and everything else was BOGUS! Our Space came packed with the features I wanted to provide my members and its also easy to mantain , customize , and administrate. Their tech support is 100% !! They installed it for me the same day I purchased! I propose that HotScripts.com feature this program as the next big thing to hit the net! 2coolcode rocks!

It has potential, Nov 15th, 2006

The code is packed with features, and has tons of potential. The big weaknesses are in vulnerability to spamming. Registration does not require confirmation by email address, so overnight the site could be covered with Viagra and refinance ads. Email addresses are displayed in a way that is easy to spider. In contrast to the very positive other review here, I find technical support to be responsive sometimes but other times no answer for a week or possibly forever.

Terrible Not Worth Purchasing, Dec 22nd, 2006

If you are expecting this script to work, you have another thing coming. The script is very amateur in design and development and has many issues. The Administration console is very limited. When it comes to fixing issues you have to do many things manually and from the previous post as far as customer support goes, they might respond when they feel like it. The little text document documentation is worthless. I really wanted to like this script and spent months trying to deal with it. DONT BUY!!

finally we found it!, Jan 11th, 2007

We just bought this script and it works great. Our members love it. They installed it for us the same day we purchased it. The greatest thing about this program aside from all it's features is that it's customizable! We can easily change anything we want. We don't have to shuffle through a ton of code just to change the layout, colors and graphics. This is probibably the best community portal social networking script out there. Works better than everything else we've tried! I recommend it!

I can't say I am as happy as some of the other members on this site. I have to agree 100% with xixmedia. I installed it and had several issues. I had to use dos2unix to convert it to a format that a unix server could understand evan though it was designed for one. As far as technical support goes have yet to receive any. I wouldn't purchase this script unless you like throughing money away. I personally think it should be dropped from hot scripts listing. It's a great idea but needs major work

You'd better think twice about this product!!!!, May 20th, 2008

I was initially very excited about this product, but that was before I bought it and immediately after it was installed. After that, tech support evaporated, and the company tacked on their product name to my domain name, without my prior knowledge or consent. I've called and emailed about other issues, but no one will respond to me at all. I've also read reviews that said that some of the advertised features dont work. I dont know about that, but I wouldnt buy this product again! BEWARE!!!!!!
