Description: BlogNewsCMS is a Powerful, Lightweight Content Management Solution written in PHP that does not require a database. It allows the Webmaster to easily add, edit and delete Items (news or a blog entry) by simply using a web browser. A flexible approach to the design means you could create an entire content website using this solution or to simply use it to keep a news section of your website up to date.

Full admin interface allows you control over all content.

Very simple templating system allows you to easily integrate into your existing website or create a stand-alone site.
