LI-Guestbook

Hits: 4,283

Description: This is a MySQL based guestbook script that works with templates and a css stylescript. You can edit the template to your website's style and LI-Guestbook fills that with all the entries from your database. You can set mininum/maximum lengths for the person's name and comment, validate his/her email address, enable/disable html in a user's comment, customize error messages if one or more requirements are not met and a lot more. For a full list of options, refer to our website. We also included emoticons/smilies for users to add to their comment. As admin you can look at the IP addresses, delete comments or reply to comments. This script comes with a small extra script that will setup a table for the guestbook in your database, so you don't have to setup the database yourself.

I'm currently using this script on my personal web site and it's doing fairly well. The only problem I've found is that the 'emoticons' do not work properly. There is a JS error when trying to insert, click, a 'emoticon'. Otherwise, this is a very powerful, small, easy to configure script. Good job!
