Ajax Contact Form

Hits: 4,518

Description: With TSPHPFeedback you can insert contact forms on your web pages, that doesn't requires to reload the page to open the form and send the contact message, due an Ajax based implementation. This script is packed inside a Dreamweaver extension, you don't need programming skills to insert it and you need just a click from the Dreamweaver menu. Your server should support PHP and the PHP mail function enabled (most of servers with PHP do).

I started using this extension a few days ago. I find easy now inserting a contact form on my site since I don't need any new contact page for this purpose. My customers are seeing this option almost like a live support; they can send me fast messages without scrolling or opening a new page. I don't know exactly how "Ajax" works, but I like what can be done through this.
