Excellent product and support, Mar 28th, 2007

When buying a product, you have to look at more than the functionality of software. You also have to look at support.

The software is quite easy to configure and even I, who do not have any technical knowledge and any experience with maintaining real estate listings, was able to install it. In addition to that their response to my queries was almost instant and to the point.

Thank you,

After searching for a real estate script for more than two months and finally took a decision to get this one. So far I am very happy with my choice, I think it has good and easy to use interface. And (until now) the support has been quite fast and helpful, thank you for the good service.

Been working with this script for a couple of months now and I like it a lot. It's got great features for a resonable price. It's very easy to add custom categories and sub categories. What really sold me was the Google Mapping feature - but it's nice to offer this to say "Yard Sale" customers so they don't have to spend a lot of time giving directions.
