Description: DRBImageGallery is an easy-to-use image gallery script with customizable search capabilities. It allows you to categorize your images with user-defined attributes and keywords. Visitors to your site can search your image gallery using these criteria via a simple search form. Thumbnail image files are generated automatically. You can upload your images directly through the web browser, or use an FTP client to upload your images into the images folder, and script will import them. The pages are XHTML syntax compliant, and compatible with both IE and Firefox. The application includes a web-based administration interface.
