Description: TechDex Blog v1.1 is a powerful new blog application that is fully customizable.

HTML replies by the public have been filtered and replaced with special tags for font styles, images, and URLs. The admin is the only person who can use HTML when posting.

This blog also supports basic smilies.

It features an administration area that you can use to cancel or edit threads and replies.

It also features the NeussanceTrapper security filters that allow you to ban email and ip addresses, and includes a keyword and profanity filter.

The best part of this application is the SitePM messaging system. It's more than just a PM for your site - it's a full email system that allows you to compose, send, reply, forward and store messages just like your regular email.

Setup is very easy and all files have been fully commented with descriptions, instructions, and readme.

I assist will all setups to make sure everything operates properly.
