Site not launched countdown script

Hits: 516

Description: I made this script for who ever will launch a site soon. The script is really easy to install. No setup necessary. Just upload the files to your server and it is ready for use. There is a configuration file that holds everything: date when the site will be launched, the template files and everything else. You can view a demo here>>

Features:

Easy to install: just copy the files to your server

Countdown until the launch of your website

No database required to run the script because the emails are stored in a file on your server.

Customise the looks using CSS and templates.

Collects all emails in a file on your server.

The templates are easy to make.

Web 2.0 look and feel
